GUY'S HOSPITAL
SAMARITAN FUND.

SECOND REPORT.

FROM NOV. 1, 1857, TO DEC. 31, 1858.

RA988

R E P O R T.

THE Treasurer begs to present to the Governors and friends of the Hospital an account of his receipts and payments in respect of the Samaritan Fund, for the fourteen months from the 1st November, 1857 (the period to which the former Report was brought down), to the 31st December, 1858. For the future he proposes to issue a Report annually, at the beginning of each year, giving an account of the fund for the year preceding.

In the present instance, he has the satisfaction of stating that the contributions which he has received during the interval to which this Report refers, have enabled him not only sensibly to increase the invested capital, (to which object he has, according to previous usage, devoted all the donations), but also considerably to augment the distribution of relief;—the sum devoted to which during the last year, though still very inadequate to the necessities of the case, is threefold the amount so expended in any former year.

Of this expenditure it will be seen that £10 10s. consists of subscriptions to the Convalescent Institution at Walton-on-Thames, and to the Sea-bathing Infirmary at Margate, entitling the Governors to send five patients to each institution. In each case, however, a much larger number of the patients of the Hospital have actually received the benefits of the Charity. For the Convalescent Institution, many additional tickets have been received from some of the Governors and from other persons, by means of which, and of the tickets from the Samaritan Fund, no less than thirty-four patients altogether have been sent to it from the Hospital, at an expense on the whole to the Samaritan Fund (exclusive of the subscription,) of £5 12s. 6d. This is, in fact, for travelling and incidental expenses alone; the maintenance of the patients, while in the Convalescent Institution, being defrayed out of the funds of that Charity.

To the Sea-bathing Infirmary at Margate, three patients only have been sent at the cost of the Samaritan Fund, the expense of which (the maintenance of the patients as well as their travelling expenses having in this case had to be provided for) has amounted to £17 2s. But here the poor patients of the Hospital have been largely indebted to the liberality of the same benefactor, whose charity the Treasurer had occasion to acknowledge in his former Report; as many as thirteen patients having been conveyed to Margate and supported there, (several of them for long periods of time,) at the sole cost of Mr. Couchman.

Another department of expenditure, into which the increased funds at his disposal have enabled the Treasurer to enter, has been the supply of Instruments and appliances for the relief of bodily infirmities, in cases to which the funds of the Hospital could not be properly applied, but where the call for assistance was urgent, and the aid afforded of extreme value. A larger amount than heretofore has also been distributed (but always in small sums) towards the payment of travelling expenses and food and lodging for destitute patients, and in providing materials for others to make up into articles of clothing.

The Treasurer, however, ventures to repeat his urgent appeal for additional Annual Subscriptions,—those which have been so far given, though liberal in individual amount, being but few in number; and the Governors have to regret the loss of one of the subscribers by death. He desires, therefore, to express his hope that his colleagues will unite with him in endeavouring, by their personal contributions, and by using their influence with their friends, to raise the income of the Samaritan Fund to an amount more nearly commensurate with the magnitude of the calls upon it, and the importance of the Hospital with which it is connected.

It is gratifying to the Treasurer to be able to call attention to the fact that the Samaritan Fund boxes, which were put up in the wards of the Hospital for the first time about twelve months ago, have already yielded the sum of £8 8s. 11d.
